Softonic review Downloading more than one file on your smartphone can be a slow and exhausting task. With Filelinked, it's a breeze! It's a mobile utility app that eliminates the need to open multiple tabs on your mobile web browser, making the process quicker than ever. It permits you to download different documents simultaneously without composing any long URLs. Instead, it assigns codes to any documents you need so you can start downloading them immediately. What is FileLinked used for? You can begin using Filelinked by clicking Create Code. This will redirect you to a page where you can create your free Filelinked account or type in your login credentials. Once you've signed in, you will be diverted to your dashboard. You will need to create a new list that includes the same number of files as you need by providing the names, URLs, and even logos to your documents. Each list has a corresponding Filelinked Code. You will enter the code on the mobile app. This will prompt your mobile device to download the files automatically. Filelinked does not store the codes, so you don't have to worry about it circulating the internet. They do, however, encourage you to keep them so that you can share it with others that also need the files. The app depends on user-created content. You provide a direct link to any file that's publicly accessible. As a document management tool, you grant the company the right to utilize the materials you post to their website. Posting downloading, showing, using, transmitting, or distributing data through Filelinked essentially gives them a license to use your content. They can copy, distribute, transfer, edit, translate, reformat, and post (publicly) the documents you shared with them. Safe-to-use bulk downloading program Overall, Filelinked makes it convenient for you and for your trusted sources to download multiple files on their phone. It turns your download link into a numeric code so you will not have to send long links; however, be wary of the items you upload on Filelinked. They have access to all your files and can use it for their company's purposes.
